The BOSTON Evening-Poſt.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the NEW-YORK Gazette, July 4. 1765.

IT is indeed amazing, that any man, who thinks at all of the Public, ſhould be indifferent about it; it is more amazing, that any man, who has a ſtake in it, can avoid thinking of it, or be without zeal for it; but it is moſt amazing, that great men, men of dignity and fortune, of ſplendor and title, all which can only be ſecure whilſt the Public is ſo, ſhould not always, and in all countries, be upon perpetual guard againſt their own ruin & debaſement, and continually ſtudying to ſupport public liberty, which muſt ſupport them.

Lukewarmneſs, from ſuch men, would ſeem incredible, if it had never happened; and is infamous whenever it happens, as well as the effect of the moſt groſs blindneſs and infatuation. Yet thus lukewarm were many of the great Romans, even when they ſaw Cæſar's ſword already waving dreadfully over them. Well might Cicero ſay of them, as he does with juſt ſeverity and contempt, Ita ſtulti ſunt, ut, amiſsâ republicâ, piſcinas ſuas ſalvas fere videntur; "They were ſuch fools to conclude, that, "tho' the Republic were loſt, their fiſhponds would remain ſecure." Fools indeed! When liberty was gone, no man could be ſecure, nor any man's poſſeſſions. The diſcovery, which a man might have made at firſt, they made afterwards; when their not having made it ſooner, only ſerved to upbraid and torment them. They indeed felt it, and felt it with a vengeance, under the triumvirate, when a price was ſet upon their heads, and their poſſeſſions and darling fiſh-ponds, ſeized by the Tyrants who ſucceded their friend Cæſar, whoſe clemency was not perpetuated with his uſurpation. This, too, was very eaſy to have been foreſeen; as alſo the future ſtate of their families, which were all perſecuted; moſt of them cut off by the following Tyrants, without any exception, or favour to the deſcendants of ſuch as had helped to eſtabliſh the Tyranny.

Here is a leſſon and warning to all nations, eſpecially to men of name and figure amongſt them, how dearly they ought to prize publicSpirit and Patriots: How much it becomes and behoves them to poſſeſs & cheriſh that Spirit; and how nearly it imports all men to love their country. It is only Self-Love generouſly applied; and he who loves himſelf judiciouſly, will certainly love the Public and Liberty. It is moreover virtuous and honourable; and is entitled to ſolid fame, to the affections and praiſes of all men. What other motive needs there? He who has not this Spirit may perhaps, be a harmleſs man; but he is a very bad Citizen: He who diſlikes or diſpiſes it, is an enemy to his fellow-citizens; and muſt expect a natural return, that of hate and infamy. Is life, or any thing in life, worth enjoying upon ſuch melancholy terms? A virtuous man may bear diſlike and obloquy, becauſe he knows that he deſerves it not: But deteſtation abroad accompanied with guilt within, and occaſioned by it, is a heavy and a doleful lot! What does the world produce to attone for it? Guilty greatneſs is, at beſt, but a great burden and reproach.

The love of our country is ſuch an amiable quality, indeed ſuch an important duty, attended with ſo many recommendations to enforce it, that it is a pity, as well as a wonder, it ſhould not be common. How natural it is, to love and reſpect a man of this ſpirit! It melts me into compaſſion and ſympathy, and fills me with reverence and eſteem, when I find, in my reading, ſuch a character as that of the Sieur Baptiſt du Meſnil, advocate general in France, in the time of that monſter in a Diadem Catherine de Mediciis. He loved his country ſo paſſionately, that it broke his heart to ſee its misfortunes. This teſtimony he has from Monſieur De Thou, that great Hiſtorian and Patriot; and this teſtimony is a glorious reward for ſo virtuous a mind, for a grief ſo pious, and ſo honeſt an end.

Cicero uſed to aſk himſelf, what men would ſay of him when he was gone; and was more afraid of the Judgment of future Hiſtorians, than of all the common prate and cenſure of the preſent times. This was agreeable to the good ſenſe of Cicero. A man who loves fame, will labour to deſerve it: If he be indifferent about it, its a ſhrewd preſumption, that he is equally indifferent about his morals: If he utterly deſpiſe it, he does as ſurely diſpiſe the means of acquiring it, even virtue and worthy actions. Fame is always the ſure portion of the Patriot, firſt or laſt (for ſometimes he is eclipſed for a while); and a glorious portion it is. Flatterers and parricides, with the great and ſmall vulgar, may traduce him; but this only confirms his merit, and adds to his renown. The beſt lot that can befall the Parricide, is to be forgot: A very comfortleſs lot! Eſpecially to a man who has cauſe to wiſh for it. It was a laudable paſſion for Glory in Cicero, when he grew jealous, leſt the ſervices done by Pompey for the Republic might ſeem to poſterity to ſurpaſs his.

MONTPELIER, in France, April 8.

THE wild beast ſo often mentioned, ſtill continues its ravages in Gevaudan; few days paſs without hearing ſome melancholy account relative to it. The 12th ult. it attacked five boys of the village of Villeret, who were keeping cattle on the moutain; the three eldeſt were about eleven, and the two others about eight years of age, and they had with them two girls about the ſame age: the boys had each of them a ſtick with a piece of pointed iron tied to the end of it. As ſoon as they ſaw the beaſt they ſtood on their defence; the animal went round them two or three times, and at laſt ſprung upon one of the leaſt boys, upon which the three eldeſt attacked him, but they could not penetrate his ſkin; however they plagued him ſo that they made him quit his prize, after having torn a piece of fleſh from the boy's right cheek, which retiring a few yards he eat in their view. Soon afterwards he attacked the boys with redoubled fury, and ſeizing the youngeſt by the arm carried him off. One of the boys being terrified, propoſed running away whilſt the beaſt devoured their comrade, but the biggeſt boy, by name Portfaix, who was always foremoſt, ſaid that they muſt deliver their companion or die with him. They accordingly purſued the beaſt, and drove him into a bog about fifty paces diſtance, where the ground being ſo ſoft he went ſo ſlowly that the boys ſoon overtook him. They knew they could not penetrate his ſkin, therefore they endeavour to wound him about the head, and particularly the eyes; they made ſeveral puſhes at his mouth, which he kept continually open, but could never hit his eyes; during this combat the beaſt ſtill kept the little boy under his paw, but they did not give him time to bite him. The boys at length ſo harraſſed him that he was obliged a ſecond time to quit his prey, and the little boy had only a wound in his arm, by which the beaſt held him, and a ſlight ſcratch in his face.

The boy's cries at length brought a man to their aſſiſtance, who alſo ſet up a loud cry; but as ſoon as the beaſt, riſing on his hind legs, ſaw the man approaching, he fled, and threw himſelf into a brook about half a league off. Three men ſaw him plunge himſelf in, come out, and then roll himſelf on the graſs; he afterwards went towards Mazel, where he devoured a lad of fifteen years old, and the twenty firſt he attaked a young girl about the ſame age, who was happily ſuccoured in time & is likely to recover. The next day it attacked a woman at Julianges, and bit off her head. In the months of December and January it devoured two perſons in Rouergue and three in Auvergne. It ravages the country for the ſpace of forty leagues, the Gevaudan being the center. By the precautions that are taken, we hope it will ſoon be deſtroyed.

LONDON. May 8.

A bill has paſſed an auguſt Houſe, to prevent any free Indian, under his Majeſty's protection, from being carried by ſea from any of his Majeſty's colonies in America, without a proper licence for that purpoſe.

A great perſonage in the church, we are told, lately gave it as his opinion, that it would be expedient to make uſe of the pulpit, as a means of quieting many exclamations propagated againſt the government; but we hear it was thought infinitely better to truſt to time for a remedy, than to revive any of the ingenious arguments made uſe of on a ſimilar occaſion, by the truly pious, paſſive, Doctor Sacheverel.

'Tis ſaid the expediency of annexing all proprietory governments to the crown, will be ſpeedily taken into conſideration by an auguſt Aſſembly.

Letters from Weſt Florida mention, that they had begun to make pot-aſh in great quantities, and in tolerable perfection, from which great commercial advantages were expected.

Two African Princes, we are told, will ſpeedily come over, to be educated in one of our univerſities.

A number of ſhip carpenters, under the direction of a maſter builder, from Portſmouth, are ſoon to embark for Weſt Florida, for the conſtruction of royal dock-yards at Penſacola, in the neighbourhood of which cedar-trees are ſo plentiful, that, we hear, ſuch of his Majeſty's ſhips of war as touch there, are to be ſheathed with two inch plank thereof, which in the Weſt-Indies has the advantage of every other wood, in being worm proof.

To ſo exceſſive a pitch has the luxury of the preſent times ariſen, that a merchant of conſiderable property in the Eaſt-India funds gave three noblemen an entertainment at his own houſe, in the courſe of laſt week, which coſt above 527l.

The conſumption of ſheep & lambs, by a moderate computation, in London and the bills of mortality, is ſuppoſed to be at leaſt 10,000 weekly; ſo that if the carcaſe-butcher gains 2s. on each it is a tax on this city, &c. of 1000l. per week, or 52,000l. a year.

They write from Quebec, that a conſiderable ſettlement is, this ſummer, to be made on the iſland of Anticoſtia, in the mouth of the river St. Laurence, for the benefit of carrying on an extenſive trade with the Indians on both ſides, for ſeal ſkins and furs; ſome fortifications are alſo to be erected at the expence of the government.

Laſt Tueſday Evening as Mr. Michael M'Lachlan was coming from Paſſage Fort to this Town, he was attacked near Thomat Lake, Eſqr's. Pen by the Negroes, who pulled him of his Horſe, ſtabbed him in his ſide, gave him ſeveral cuts on his head with a knife, and then after endeavouring to ſtrangle him, robbed him of caſh in different coins to the amount of upwards of 186l. beſides a ſilver ſnuff box and ſome wearing apparel.

The Dreadnought parted with the Eſſex in a hard gale of wind about ten days ſince. The Africa is gone to Carthagena.

SAVANNAH, in GEORGIA, May 30.

Admiral Tyrrell, and Mr. Higginſon, Governor of St. Vincent's, having made repeated complaints of the abuſe of commiſſions by the flags of truce diſpatched from the French to the Engliſh iſlands in the Weſt Indies, by carrying on an illicit trade, aſſiſting in taking off negroes, and keeping arms and ammunition, to be ready to act defenſively on every occaſion, contrary to the law of nations, Monſ. Le Marquis de la Mothe Fenelon, Lieutenant General of Martinico, and Monſ. Le Preſident De Peiner, conſidering the illegality of ſuch proceedings, and the repreſentations of Mr. Tyrrell and Higginſon, and being deſirous to prevent the like abuſes, have declared, that henceforward they will be very cautious in granting permiſſions to flags of truce; that they will only grant them for a limited time, which ſhall be ſpecified in the commiſſion, and that they will accordingly communicate this regulation to his Britannic Majeſty's governors of the Engliſh iſlands, and deſire them to take care that the flags of truce depart at the expiration of the term; that they ſhall only come to an anchor in the principal harbour of each Engliſh iſland, and that every where elſe they declare them to be guilty of formal diſobedience, and liable to be treated accordingly; that every maſter of a flag of truce, who ſhall be taken and convicted of having on board any arms, offenſive or defenſive, ſhall not only be liable to have his veſſel and every thing on board confiſcated in the court of admiralty of his Britannick Majeſty, but they ſhall deſire the Governors of the ſaid iſlands to cauſe them to be judged perſonally, according to the laws and cuſtoms of England, as they ſhould do, in the like caſe, in the colonies belonging to their king.

QUEBEC, June 13.

We hear that on the 7th of laſt month, a very tragical affair happened at Montreal; a girl, about 15 years of age, who lived with her grandfather & grand-mother, took the opportunity to put arſenick among ſome ſalt, which the people unluckily put in their ſoup for dinner; immediately after eating they were all ſeized with a violent ſickneſs; the girl, pretending to eat none that day, after ſeeing the reſt affected, ran out and brought in a Doctor, who gave them counter poiſon: They remained very ſick, one of them is ſince dead, and the reſt continue in a dangerous condition. They have committed a Blackſmith to priſon, who is ſuſpected of having been privy to this moſt execrable crime.

The Governor immediately prorogued the Aſſembly, whereby the Marſhal was releaſed of Courſe.

We have a report in town concerning an inſurrection of the inhabitants of Mexico, ſomething of which, under the South Carolina head, was inſerted the week before laſt. Our account, which is tho't to be authentic, is, that an edict ſome time ſince arrived from the court of Spain, with orders that every inhabitant, capable of bearing arms, ſhould be ſubject to be regularly exerciſed, and apparelled in one particular uniform. This excited a diſaffection, and ſome delinquents being proſecuted with rigour, cauſed the whole country to join in one general revolt, and purſued it with ſuch vigour and ſucceſs, that the Viceroy was obliged to make a precipitate flight, and to quit the country.

Mexico is of ſo great extent, as to form a powerful empire. The Viceroy, who is ſent from Spain, exerciſes as much deſpotiſm as any Prince in Europe. It is divided into old and new Mexico, the former is 2000 miles in length, & from 71 to 550 in breadth.

There is in this harbour three men of war, viz. the Maidſtone, Cygnet and Jamaica.

July 8. Saturday laſt arrived here Capt. For Wealth or Poverty, it's pow'rful aid;
Alike to him, Worth could it's Charm impart,
In King, or Beggar, touch'd his gen'rous Heart.

A Patriot's Flame, with pious Zeal ſuſtain'd,
His Country's Rights, with jealous Care maintain'd;
With grateful Eye, beheld the Glory paſt,
Drop'd a ſad Tear, and ſighing breath'd his laſt.

We hear from Great-Barrington, That on the 8th ult. died there, in the 62th Year his Age, JOSEPH DWIGHT, Eſq; who was a Brigadier-General of the Forces at the Expedition againſt Louiſbourg, in the Year 1745.——As he was greatly beloved in his Life-time, ſo his Death is much lamented.

On Monday Night as one Mrs. Bright, at the North End, was going down Stairs to get ſomething for her Huſband, who was in an upper Chamber, and blind, ſhe fell, whereby ſhe broke her Neck and expired immediately.

We hear from Falmouth, Caſco-Bay, that ſince laſt Spring there has been raiſed in that Town the Frames of above Fifty Dwelling Houſes, within half a Mile of each other.

We hear that Capt. Spear of this Place is arrived at South-Carolina, from the Coaſt of Africa: He has been from hence near 18 Months, and buried his Mate, Boy, and all his Men, on the Coaſt; he loſt a great Number of Slaves, while he waited for the Arrival of ſome Man of War to ſupply him with Hands to bring off his Veſſel.

The Report of the arrival of Benjamin Franklin, Eſq; at Philadelphia, from London, as inſerted in laſt Monday's Papers, proves groundleſs; ariſing from ſeveral Letters which came by a Veſſel that lately arrived at Philadelphia, and frank'd by him in London.

Laſt Saturday Morning one —— Doyle, a Priſoner in the Goal in this Town, died ſuddenly: His Death was ſuppoſed to be occaſioned by the Blows he received in a Fray he had a Day or two before with another Priſoner who was confined in the ſame Room with him.
